No. 30

SCIENTISTS TO GIVE DEMONSTRATIONS

The scientist is often criticized because he seems to live only for and within the little world he has created by his work. The embryo-scientists working on the demonstrations for the "Evening With Science" on May 9 and 10 are expecting to entirely refute this idea. They plan, rather, to show the relation of science to the individual man. They expect to show how science leads to a better understanding of ones environment. Several demonstrations will clearly indicate how scientific developments have radically changed the pattern of everyday life. Many operations in nature, ordinarily obscured from view, will be exposed and brought into the light. You will be able to see some of those things about which one can read in books but must go into the laboratory to actually observe. New and entirely different ways of doing some old and commonplace things will be demonstrated.

Can you afford to miss such an opportunity? Dare you let it pass without telling your friends all about it so they may come and see and hear and learn? Did you tell them about it when you were home last week-end? Did you urge that they come to the Science building on the evenings of May 9 and 10? If you forgot, there is still time to write them.

Will you—Now—and Not tomorrow!

Bee Gee Players to Give Shakespearian Play

An unusually good cast has been selected to present Shakespeare's "Merchant of Venice" on April 26. The original play will be shortened somewhat. James Greeham directs the production.

The chief characters are:

Shylock—James Greeham
Bassanio—Audrey Stevenson
Antonio—Joe Hilty
Portia—Charlotte Planson
Neressa—Josephine Herman
Jessica—Inez Gorsuch

Y. M. C. A. Conference Attended by Local Men

The Y. M. C. A. spring conference was held at Ohio Wesleyan last week-end. The conference afforded training for newly elected officers.

Franklin Belding, president; Lawrence Ringenberg, and Prof. Fauley were royally entertained in the home of Phi Kappa Psi fraternity for the two nights.

GOLD MASK CLUB TO PRESENT "UP POPS THE DEVIL" MAY 1

A play which was unanimously declared one of the most laughable pieces of gaiety ever produced in New York by the critics there is the next vehicle for the Gold Mask at the college auditorium on Wednesday night, May 1st.

"Up Pops the Devil" has more witty dialogue, clever characterizations and comedy situations than the play which the same organization produced last spring. Those who remember "Ladies of Creation" and the fine scenery and delightful presentation of last season can expect the same high class entertainment this time.

It depicts the troubles that arise when the man exchanges places with the woman in caring for the house while she earns the bread and butter. Evelyn Wentz takes the lead with Bob Yeagley the one who tries taking care of the home.

Charlene Johnson will appear in the juvenile role of a southern girl who complicates things in the home. Ruth Strouss, Inez Gorsuch, and several others are to appear in the play in prominent roles.

Don Bodetscher will depict a fine comedy role in supporting Yeagley while Ivan Lake, director of the club and last year's lead returns to his original role of comedian. Clement Premo, remembered for his sterling performance of "Koko" in "The Mikado" has a comedy part and Ervin Kreischer, an alumnus, adds much through a fine character interpretation.

The play will be presented Wednesday May 1, at eight fifteen o'clock in the college auditorium.

Next Folk Dance Meeting Planned For April 30

The regular folk dance meeting will be held as usual in the Women's Gym at 7 p. m. Tuesday April 30. At this writing it is not sure what the program for the evening will be but those who have attended know that a profitable time is assured. All are welcome.

State Y. M. C. A. Man To Talk Here Tonight

"Bill" Chambers, state Y. M. C. A. man will be on the campus tonight, April 25. The nature of his discussion will be sex hygiene. All men of the college are invited to the meeting at 7:00 p. m.

NATURALISTS MEET IS WELL ATTENDED

One hundred and eight persons attended the Field Naturalists Association meeting here, April 12. Some seventy of these were from out of town, chiefly teachers from Toledo. Sixty were served dinner at Shatzel Hall. Students of the college also attended the program.

Dr. Otis' lecture on "Aquatic Invertebrates of Ohio" was very instructive and entertaining. His lecture was illustrated by lantern slides and a micro-projector which magnified the tiny creatures so that their movements were clearly seen. The visitors viewed the college's collection of insects, birds, etc. and looked at the marine invertebrates under a microscope. All felt themselves well repaid for their trip.

The association is quite a thriving organization. It was founded three years ago. An annual meeting has been held here each year. The next meeting will be a field trip to Lakeside about the middle of May to observe the height of the bird migration. Dr. Otis, Prof. Holt, and Prof. Moseley are members of the organization.

Arts Meet Shows New Interest Trend

The unusually large attendance at the Western Arts Association Convention held in Chicago last week suggests a growing interest in art teaching. Fifteen thousand were there, although only five hundred had been anticipated. The outstanding speakers at the convention were Hughes Meames, head of Education Department of New York University, and Grant Wood, a well known American painter.

These annual meetings have three major purposes: (1) to give members an opportunity to hear leaders in the fields of fine arts, industrial arts, home economics; (2) to afford the opportunity of seeing the art work done by pupils in elementary schools, junior and senior high schools, teachers' colleges, and art schools; (3) to give teachers an opportunity to come into contact with companies which produce art materials. The exhibit of the work of Chicago school children in the elementary grades was especially interesting. The keynote of the whole program, both in exhibits and in speeches, was the free, creative expression of the child.

Miss Wills attended the convention from this college.

COMMENCEMENT NUMBER

Last week, nearly one half of the student-body signed subscriptions for a special souvenir issue of the News. With this encouragement and support, plans are being laid by the Staff for a number that may fill, in some measure, the vacancy left by the non-appearance of the annual.

The keynote of this Commencement issue will be photographs. Pictures of all graduates, other classes by groups, faculty, and organizations will be included. In addition, as many interesting snap-shots of campus scenes and personalities as possible will be used.

If you have any photos which you would be willing to contribute, turn them over to some member of the News staff as soon as possible. The more of these snap-shots we are able to obtain, the more refreshing and worth-while will be our booklet. Help us with your photo!

100 per cent sign up for the Commencement number will help to make the issue very much better.

GUESS WHO?

He is 6 feet 2½ inches tall and weighs 167 pounds. He has red hair and grayish green eyes. His shoes are size 10½.

The Five Brother Fraternity claims him as one of its up-and-coming brothers. He is exceedingly active in football, basketball, and track. He is very fond of golf, and other outdoor games.

He runs his hand through his hair in a characteristic manner all his own. He paces the floor when he is trying to solve an important issue. He has a very nervous disposition. His weaknesses are Colliers magazine and ice cream—mostly more ice cream. He likes to dance and he has a complex about dorms and their administration. He is big-hearted but it is said that he likes to brag.

The answer to the last Guess Who was Professor Schwarz.

STUDENT RECREATION

The other day a house-matron said to me, "You college students are certainly a fine example of the restlessness and extravagance of youth today." I immediately sprang to a defensive attitude and began to defend myself and fellowmen and women. Her main point of argumentation was that we "weren't satisfied with spending a quiet evening studying followed by a short period of recreation in the form of parlor games and cards." She said that her parents were scandalized when she wanted to play cards. Today modern youth is given a great privilege in playing with cards, and still we're not satisfied. "Why, almost every night around ten o'clock you have to be off to a show, the Parrot, the Log Cabin, or some social event at the college."

I made a few foolish objections and attempted rebuttal, but I knew it was useless. She, as too many, was laboring under too heavy a burden of prejudice and was influenced tremendously, (even as I was, oppositely,) by it.

But our little discourse set me to thinking (please don't ask me what with).

What she had said was very nearly true. The classes of the average student run from eight to five. Besides this there are other things: not strictly required class work, such as "shop" or "lab"; and extra-curricula activities, such as glee club, tumbling, wrestling, band, orchestra, and hand ball to keep one busy from five to six. Then there are the hours from seven to nine (approx.) devoted to library study and research.

Physics Department Gets Films

Films to be used in talking picture demonstrations have been supplied by several of the large film corporations. These enterprises seemed agreeable to lend the material for study by the students of Advanced Physics.

Courtesy in Chapel

It is commonly understood that college students are more courteous than other young people of corresponding age. They should be because of their educational advantages, yet sometimes we wonder.

Why is there so much grumbling and growling about compulsory chapel attendance? Certainly those in authority think we will profit from it, or they would not have gone to such an effort to work out a suitable course of entertainment. There is nothing physically disagreeable about sitting there for a regular class period, it isn't as hard as shoveling coal or as nerve racking as sitting in class hoping you won't be called on for a recitation. We have had some enjoyable chapel programs this year, as those who attended and stayed awake will testify. It is true once in a while a poor program will creep in, the same applies to our movies. All of the pictures are not pleasing, yet we go because some of them have been worthwhile. The same is true of chapel, every program is of benefit to someone.

Common courtesy demands that members of the audience give the speaker their attention, even if he isn't interesting. College students of high scholastic standing have the crust and bad manners to sit there for the entire period writing letters, or studying, this is gross ignorance and casts a bad reflection on the entire student body. Fortunately this applies to only a select few of our fellow students, the majority of them are quite considerate of others, which after all is the mark of an educated man. Let us be more courteous and show that we are educated in other things than mere book lore.

New Courses for the Summer

Several new courses have been added to the catalogue for this coming summer session which lasts from June 17 to August 9. Play Production under Dr. McCain will be offered for the first time during the summer. The course is the same as that offered in the winter. A course in Illustrative Teaching Materials will be taught by Miss Wills. The work includes the making of charts and models, collecting of materials and specimens and preparing for handwork materials.

Music Appreciation is also a new course. It aims to acquaint the student who has little knowledge of music with the best music. Mr. McEwen is instructor. Physical Science and Modern Civilization is a new course offered by Dr. Martin. It is non-technical work in the practical application of the physical sciences to present day civilization.

The course in Current Economics Problems offers a study of three or four aspects of the "New Deal" in the light of economic principles. Dr. Kohl will be instructor of that class. A swimming course for beginners will be taught by Miss Hartman at the pool in the City Park.

FALCONS PLACE 2nd IN TRIANGULAR MEET

The Falcons of B. G. took second place in a triangular meet at Ypsilanti, Mich. Saturday with Michigan State Normal and Hillsdale. The Michigan State team easily won the meet by piling up a total of 103 points, while the Falcons collected some 30 odd points and Hillsdale 17. Hartman proved to be the high point man for the Falcons by winning firsts in the 100-yard dash and the 220-yard dash. He also finished second in a couple events. Stevenson of B. G. tied for first in the hi jump. The Falcons are waiting in earnest for the meet with Toledo U here Saturday afternoon.

Teacher's Oath Legislation

An oath similar to the following has been passed by fourteen states:

"I do solemnly swear, or affirm, that I will support the Constitution of the United States, the constitution of the state of — and the laws enacted thereunder, and that I will teach, by precept and example, respect for the flag, reverence for law and order and undivided allegiance to the government of one country, the United States of America."

The states having this law, with dates of passage are: Ohio, 1919, Colorado, 1921, Oregon 1921, S. Dakota 1921, Oklahoma 1923, West Virginia 1923, Indiana 1929, California 1931, Michigan 1931, Montana 1931, North Dakota 1931, Vermont 1931, Washington 1931, New York 1934.

Many teachers object to this law as a limitation of professional freedom. The fact that fourteen states find it necessary to protect the schools from anti-American propaganda is a warning that "the price of freedom is eternal vigilance".

We do not expect everyone to agree with all you read in this paper.

When everyone agrees with what you think you might as well stop thinking.
